Changes to the road layout and red route controls A22 Godstone Road from Foxley Hill Road to Old Barn Lane

We are currently making changes along Godstone Road from approximately its junction with Foxley Hill Road to Old Barn Lane. Working in sections, we are updating red route signs and lines, making some changes to parking bays and improvements to pavement areas and pedestrian crossings.

I am writing to provide you further information about the last stage of our work programme.

How our work may affect you:

Traffic management, parking suspensions and road closures

In the areas of the road where we are working, Godstone Road will be reduced to a single traffic lane and managed with temporary traffic lights. On selected dates, full road closures will be required.

Some pedestrian crossing points and pavement areas will be temporarily closed, and parking spaces will be suspended. Safe, socially distanced walking routes will be provided and clearly signed at all times.

Buses

As much as possible bus route 407 will operate as normal but bus stops may be closed or temporarily relocated nearby. Check tfl.gov.uk/buses for the latest information.

Please plan ahead and allow plenty of time for your journey

Details of dates, locations and restrictions needed while we are working are shown in the table below:
